Gallagher Asphalt Edition

Monthly Update - Did you Know?

Did you know the first patent for the heated screed was invented right here at Gallagher Asphalt? Zoom in & read more below!!

James F. Gallagher, Sr. has been associated with the Asphalt Industry since 1912 and has owned and operated his own Company since approximately 1930, although he has withdrawn from active management of same for past several years.

Among many dozens of contributions to the industry, he held U.S. Patent #1930, 309 on a heated screed for spreading Asphalt Mixtures granted to him October 10, 1933, as well as U.S. Patent No. 2,024,158 for a special Asphalt and Cork pavement for Playing Courts. (granted 12/17/35).

He also originated the idea of the "Hydraulic Lifting System" for the screed portion of Asphalt Finishing machines through the Barber Greene Company of Aurora, Ill. In addition, he originated the idea of the first "Leveling Arm" attachment to this machine, and was given the first such attachment by Barber Greene Co. as acknowledgment of same. Illinois Division of the Hwys subsequently specified the use of this attachment on most R/S contacts.

Through his efforts primarily the use of Stone Sand in Asphalt Mixtures was approved by Ill. Div. of Hwys. resulting in Asphalt Mixtures of much higher stability. The use of Stone Sand has grown steadily ever since in State of Illinois.

General recognition of his leadership in Asphalt Industry is represented by fact that he is referred to by many Illinois contractors and Highway Engineers as "Mr. Asphalt".
